Are Green Jobs Pink Jobs?
The Role of Social Dialogue
III Thematic Workshop

16th July 2010 – Piazza IV Novembre 5, Milan, Italy
Auditorium Gi Group

Friday 16th July 2010

10:00 Welcome and introduction
Lisa Rustico, Adapt Research fellow

10.10 Social dialogue for women in renewable energy sector: new scenarios, old stories
Jòzsef Hajdù, University of Szeged (Hungary)

10.30 Voices from the Balkans: renewable energies in Bulgaria
Radosveta Gospodinova, UPEE - Union for Private Economic Enterprises (Bulgaria)

10.45 Trade unions for women in renewables: the case of Italy
Manuela Lupi, FLAEI-CISL

11.10 Enel Green Power: a business case
Antonella Lanaro, Enel Green Power

11.30 What job profiles for women in renewables?
Emilio Luongo, Gi Group Green Economy

12.00 The role of the Counselors for Gender Equality at Work
Alessandra Servidori, National Counselor for Gender Equality at Work

12.30 Debate

The event will focus on the role of social dialogue in renewable energy, as an instrument to increase female employment rates and support women working conditions within the sector.

Participants will be invited to discuss the possible role of social partners and collective bargaining to foster women's involvement in non-traditional sectors, such as Renewable Energy, which are usually characterized by male workforce.

Discussants will exchange views on themes like working time arrangements, work-life balance, career paths, education and training opportunities, as well as further measures for social partners and stakeholders to help women succeed in green sectors.

The event is organized with the support of